How to wear

Step 1

1. Create a part for the extension.
• The cornrow braid will serve as the "anchor" on which the extension will be sewn.

Step 2

2. Grab three small, fairly equal size amounts of hair from the thin section of hair you've reserved for the cornrow.
• Do not start with too much hair.

Step 3

3. Begin by crossing the hair in your right hand underneath the hair in your center section.
• Make your cornrow as tight as you can without causing pain.

Step 4

4. Attach the extension.
• If your cornrow extended beyond your part, simply fold it back onto the head as you attach the extension.

Step 5

5. End the row. Knot the end two or three times for extra security. Trim the edges of the leftover thread on both ends of the extension.

Step 6

6. Cut if necessary. Depending on how you wear your hair, you may need to get a hair cut to create a new style.
